

WHERE HE STANDS

Clean-Cut Declaration of the Political Principles of

HON. JOHN T. MATT

Democratic Candidate for the Legislature—His Fine Record in Session Reviewed.

The Democratic candidate for member of the House of Representatives from this county, who has the endorsement of the Washington, Keystone and Prohibition parties, in compliance with our request, has declared himself in language unequivocal and unmistakable in the following paragraphs:

HON. JOHN T. MATT

"I believe the people and the people only should rule; therefore I am for the initiative, the referendum and the recall.

"I believe that United States Senators should be elected by vote of the people.

"I am against Penrose and Penroseism and any other 'ism' that has bossism in it—the people only should rule.

"I am for equalization of taxation and believe that corporations should pay their equal share of taxes; that Express Companies doing business within the state should pay tax on net earnings. At this time they pay no tax at all.

"I am for the protection of our forests and our waterways.

"I am against the granting of eminent domain to individuals or corporations.

"My only answer to why I was endorsed by the Washington, Keystone and Prohibition parties is that I wear no collar of a boss or set of bosses; I am for the people and the people are for me because I serve ALL THE PEOPLE and not one master or four masters."

MR. MATT VOTED FOR—

The Sprout State Highway bill.

The Jones Dirt Road bill for the townships. This bill originally carried with it an appropriation of $2,000,000, which was reduced to $1,000,000 when it passed and the Governor cut it down to $500,000, which was an injustice to the townships in which there are no state roads.

The resolution to amend the constitution so as to give the voters of the state a chance to vote on Initiative and Referendum.

The resolution favoring the election of U. S. Senators by popular vote.

The resolution to place the Local Option bill on the House Calendar.

HE VOTED AGAINST—

The bill providing for additional clerks and assistant sergeant-at-arms for the House of Representatives. The defeat of this measure meant a saving of thousands of dollars to the taxpayers.

The Capitol Park Extension bill. By this bill an appropriation of $200,000 was made to get options and buy a few properties. Mr. Matt says that this park extension will cost the State from five to eight millions, for it takes in about eight squares improved with residences, wholesale and retail business houses and factories, and it is in the centre of the city. This will mean more burden on the taxpayers.

The bill proposing to tax insurance policies.

The bill raising the salary of the Members of the House from $1,500 to $2,500 per year. Had this bill passed it would have cost the State $257,000 more for each session.

The school code. He believed it would be a creator of offices and a tax raiser.

The Judge's Salary Raiser bill.

This bill costs the state $300,000 per year.

The bill to raise the salary of the members of the State Constabulary, which bill provided for raising the salary of Captain from $2,500 to $5,000 per year.

The salary raising of the Governor's Private Secretary from $2,500 to $5,000 per year. This increase of one official of $2,500 is more than any farmer in the county can make on a $20,000 farm by the hardest kind of work.

This partial record of how Mr. Matt voted during his term in the Legislature in the interest of the people and against the raising of taxes.

Now, Mr. Taxpayer, is he not worthy of a second term?

But Mr. Matt not only voted, but worked hard for what he believed to be in the interest of the taxpayers of his county and the state. He had the courage of his convictions and did no "complimentary" voting at the expense of those who pay the taxes.

MENTIONED IN BRIEF

Many Items of Interest From Town and County.

J. Roy Cessna has been confined to his home the past week by illness.

Corle H. Smith, Bedford's hustling apple dealer, has shipped three carloads to date.

Mrs. R. C. McNamara and daughter, Miss Jessie McNamara, have moved into a flat in the Heckerman Building.

We are pleased to report that Frank Fletcher, Esq., who had been confined to his room for several weeks is able to be out walking and driving.

On account of the illness of the teacher, Miss Edna Fulton, the eighth room of the Bedford schools was closed on Wednesday and Thursday.

Bedford Lodge, No. 436, K. of P., will hold a rally meeting in their hall Monday evening at 7 o'clock. A good time is expected and all members are earnestly requested to be present. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting.

AS OTHERS SEE THEM

Three Opinions of Three Presidential Candidates.

PRESIDENT TAFT

Colonel Roosevelt who knows President Taft best says of him: "He has proved faithless to the cause of the American people."

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

President Taft who knows Colonel Roosevelt best says of him: "He is a demagogue, a neurotic, a flatterer, an egoist."

WOODROW WILSON

Senator LaFollette, a pronounced progressive who is familiar with the career of Woodrow Wilson, says of him: "He approaches every problem with the solemn promise to be really, in the highest sense, a servant of the people."

Mr. Voter, which will be your choice for President of our Nation?

At Hagerstown Fair

Five automobiles left here on Tuesday and Wednesday to attend the big fair at Hagerstown. The cars belonged to Philip Hughes, R. L. Fyan, Blackwelder and Pepple and Fred A. Metzger of Bedford and Daniel Pencil of Cessna, and the party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Metzger, D. C. Kelley, Esq., M. S. Enfield, J. Floyd Murdock, P. W. Smith, Philip Hughes, Ray Prosser, Vinton Straub, L. D. Blackwelder, James Pepple, R. L. Fyan, Edgar Over, Charles Brightbill, Charles O. Cessna, Ard Fletcher, all of Bedford, and Daniel Pencil of Cessna, Albert Holderbaum of Belden and David Hixon of Everett.

Civil Service Examination

An examination for clerk and carrier will be held at the Bedford post-office on Saturday, November 2, to establish a roster from which substitutes can be appointed, there being no other vacancies at this time. The age limit is from 18 to 45 years. Women who support themselves are eligible to appointment as clerks.

For further particulars and blanks, apply to William E. Beam, Secretary, Bedford, Pa.

A PITIFUL WAIL

The Mouthpiece of the Local Annex of the

PENROSE STATE MACHINE

Laments the Failure to Get J. Anson Wright's Name on the Washington Party Ticket.

"Rather to be pitied than censured" is the Bedford Inquirer in its lamentation over the failure of the Penrose forces to get the name of J. Anson Wright on the ticket of the Washington party as the Legislative candidate.

Does the Inquirer not know that there is a wide breach in Pennsylvania between the Penrose Organization and the independent voters, who are independent largely because of Penrose, and that this breach is particularly broad in this county between the "local annex" of the Penrose machine and the independent element? This is a matter of history. One need only turn back to the time when Mr. Roosevelt, the present national leader and candidate of the Independents of the nation, but at that time the Republican candidate for President, carried this county by about 2,800 while the leader of the "annex," at the same election a candidate for Congress, lost the county by about 700, thus falling about 3,000 votes behind Mr. Roosevelt. The conditions are not essentially different now.

Does the Inquirer not see that it is a high compliment to Mr. Matt that he has been endorsed by three parties other than his own? He has been tried and not found wanting as a member of the House of Representatives at Harrisburg.

Does the Inquirer suppose that the Washington party would, not having a candidate of its own, pass over one who kept his every pledge made two years ago and take up one closely allied with the Penrose Machine and its "local annex"? Would this not be thwarting the Washington party's very object, which is to get rid of Penrose and take the control of the Legislature of the state from his hands?

True, in most instances the Legislative candidates who were nominated by the Republicans at the primary and who declared themselves in accord with the platform of the new party were endorsed. The Inquirer says Mr. Wright has done this. With whom did he file his declaration? We'll print it without charge if either the candidate or the Inquirer will furnish us a copy, so that the voters may know his attitude.

Mr. Wright has been signally honored in Bedford County by being elected County Superintendent for three consecutive terms, or nine years.

There is no disposition on Mr. Matt's part to "serve four masters;" he will serve but one and that one is the Whole People. His endorsement is a high compliment to him and a deserved endorsement of his record in the House.

To be pitied, indeed, is our neighbor, the Inquirer, which profited by that special legislative act for this county, passed several years ago, which was designed to silence all newspaper opposition to the machine and its annex in this county.

The independent voters of the county by sending a Penrose and a Reynolds man to Harrisburg would be cutting their party's throat.

Saxton Wilson Club

The Wilson and Marshall Club, which was organized in Saxton Monday night, October 7, is in a flourishing condition and now has 132 members with prospects of many more.

The headquarters are in Gertsen Hall in front of which a large banner is stretched across the street.

ROOSEVELT SHOT

Anarchist Attempted to Take the Life of the

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE

Bullet Lodged in Breast—Spoke at Meeting—In Chicago Hospital.

Harboring the hallucination that he had seen President McKinley in a dream and that the martyred executive had bade him "Avenge my murder," and believing himself safe from arrest, John Schrank of New York City Monday evening in Milwaukee shot Colonel Roosevelt in the right breast as the third-term candidate was entering an automobile to go to the Auditorium to address a meeting.

The would-be assassin was immediately arrested by Elbert H. Martin, the candidate's stenographer, and Capt. Alfred O. Gerard, a rough rider under Roosevelt.

As he was about to fire a second shot, the revolver, a 32-calibre, was knocked from his hand by Col. Cecil Lyon of Texas, who is accompanying Roosevelt on his western campaign.

Lyon jumped out of the automobile and started to choke the would-be assassin. Roosevelt, who had staggered back to the automobile when the shot was fired, raised himself up and stood looking at Lyon who was sitting on the shooter.

The Ex-President cried with a gesture: "Don't hurt him; I'm all right."

The captain of police then rushed in as Lyon released his grip on the fellow, and with Lyon dragged the man to the hotel kitchen. Colonel Roosevelt crept back in the motor car as an immense crowd that had witnessed the shooting came to his aid.

With a rare presence of mind, the Colonel cried out: "My good friends, I'm not hurt; I'm going to the hall to speak; good luck."

The whole incident had occurred so quickly that the astonished crowd did nothing but stand still. Roosevelt then told the chauffeur in a calm voice:

"Now just run the car up to the Auditorium; I'm not hurt and everything is all right."

The car started up, and in a moment Roosevelt was on his way to the hall with the bullet in his side. The Ex-President did not actually realize that he had been shot until he got to the Auditorium. Then the Ex-President felt a sharp stinging in his left side and placed his hand upon it.

Dr. Perrill, a private physician, who rode in the auto with him, noticed the gesture.

"Colonel, I believe you are hurt," he said in alarm. "No, not at all," said the Colonel with a smile, "I feel fine."

"I want to see if the bullet hit you," said the doctor.

"Don't bother yourself," insisted the Colonel, "if it hurts any I will tell you."

Dr. Perrill persisted that he ought to examine the Colonel.

"Now if we wait to do that," said Roosevelt, "you will delay the meeting and there are people waiting in the Auditorium to see me."

Seeing that it was useless to try to prevent his speaking, the Colonel's bodyguard escorted him to the platform. As Roosevelt walked firmly to the stage as though nothing was the matter, the crowd burst into the wildest of cheers he had yet heard in his campaign.

Roosevelt finally raised his hand to stop the cheering and gripping his teeth, shouted back:

"Now don't you worry; it is nothing at all."

The Ex-President had in his pocket a carefully prepared speech and pulling the manuscript out he announced that the bullet had penetrated it.

Rev. John B. Miller

Rev. John B. Miller died at his home in New Paris on Wednesday, October 9, 1912, aged 75 years, five months and four days. His parents were Jacob W. and Catharine (Walter) Miller. He is survived by one brother, Alexander W. Miller of Copemish, Mich., who attended the funeral, two sisters: Mrs. Julia Holsopple of Clymer, Pa., and Annie Barklow of Myrtle Point, Ore., and the following children: George H. Miller of near Schellsburg, Martin M. Miller of Bonners Ferry, Idaho; Annie J. (Mrs. S. H. Mickel) of New Paris and Rebecca (Mrs. Henry Claycomb) of Fishertown.

Mr. Miller became a member of the Church of the Brethren in 1856, was elected to the office of deacon in August 1865, to the ministry in January 1871, to the second degree of the ministry in 1875 and was ordained to eldership in 1895. He filled the position of school director a number of years in New Paris school district in a creditable manner. He was noted for his kindness to the poor and needy, and visiting the sick. He officiated at many marriages and especially funerals. Judging by the large concourse of people that attended his funeral, which was held on the morning of the 11th in the German Baptist Church at New Paris which he so earnestly labored to have erected, he had many friends. The services were conducted by Rev. Levi Rodgers, assisted by Revs. Levi Holsinger and W. E. Conley. Interment was made in the Dunkard Cemetery, known as the Mock Cemetery.

This upright, Christian gentleman and man of God was borne to his resting place by the following members of his church: Joseph O. Rowzer, Allen Harbaugh, George Smith, Albert Kinzey, William L. Blackburn and Andrew Rowzer. Caj.

Isaiah Hoover

Isaiah Hoover, one of Napier township's highly respected citizens, died at his home Saturday morning, aged 53 years, four months and 20 days.

The funeral services were held in Pleasant View church, near his home, Monday at 10:30 o'clock, and were conducted by Rev. Shettler and Rev. Metzger, ministers of the Menonite Church, of which deceased was a member.

The large concourse which followed his remains to their last resting place was a tribute to his worth in the community. Interment was made in the Schellsburg Cemetery.

Lewis E. Wright

Lewis E. Wright died at his home near Breezewood on Sunday, October 6, aged 49 years. He is survived by his wife, seven children, one brother and two sisters.

The funeral services were held on Thursday, October 8, in the Lutheran Church at Breezewood and were conducted by Rev. J. D. Matthews.

L. T. L. Installation Exercises

Friday evening, October 11, the following officers were installed by the Loyal Temperance Legion for one year: President, Ned Shuck; Vice President, William Pate; Recording Secretary, Ruth Naus; Corresponding Secretary, Marguerite Beckley; Treasurer, Mary M. Minnich; Social Worker, Julia Piper, Alice Blackburn, Ruth Reed; Flower Mission, Alma Piper, Romaine Reighard; Ruth Steiner, Librarians, Anna Wilson, Mary Lesh.

Meetings are held regularly Friday evenings at 6:30 o'clock, L. T. L. Room, Brode Building. All between 8 and 16 years are welcome.

At 8 o'clock this (Friday) evening there will be a short business meeting of the Senior Legion in the L. T. L. Room for the election of officers. All young people over 16 years of age are urged to become interested in this helpful organization work.

Eastern Star Appointment

Mrs. Florence V. Crean of Philadelphia, Grand Worthy Matron of the Order of the Eastern Star for Pennsylvania, has appointed and commissioned Elizabeth F. Sell of Bedford Springs Chapter, District Deputy Grand Matron for the tenth district, composed of Bedford Springs Chapter at Bedford, Delphi at Altoona, Bethany at DuBois, Emporium, Punxsutawney, Johnsonburg and Roaring Spring. Mrs. Sell has been a devoted worker in the Order, being one of the charter members and the first Worthy Matron of Bedford Springs Chapter, the first organized in south central Pennsylvania, and is to be congratulated upon her appointment, and especially so as it came to her unsolicited.

HECKERMAN LETTER

The Value of Buttermilk—The Tobacco and Fruit Crops.

North Wilkesboro, N. C., Oct. 14. Chuck-a-koo-koo, my, oh, my! I have had chicken three times each day for a week, and the product of the chicken once or twice a day as well. Snap beans are still in sight (not every day, however), and taste as good as in July when I had them every day of the month. There now is my eating list when the cornbread and buttermilk are added. The latter I am very fond of and we certainly get the nicest and sweetest I ever tasted at the hotels down here.

Did you know or ever think that an ordinary glass of buttermilk contains as much nutriment as two ounces of bread, a good sized potato, or many other articles? I have read of this and it has been published by a recent bulletin of the United States Department of Agriculture. It thus contains about the same food constituents as skimmed milk, but is different in that it has a less protein than the milk and is more easily digested. For this reason it is often prescribed by doctors for children and even grown persons, especially for those suffering from intestinal trouble. Protein being among the costly of all the food ingredients, it is the one most lacking in all inexpensive meals and this is the nutriment in which both skimmed milk and buttermilk abound, and which both supply in a cheap and useful form. I am told that two and a half quarts of buttermilk contain about the same amount of protein as one pound of round steak and costs nothing compared to the steak. Two quarts of good buttermilk have a greater nutriment than a quart of oysters. The nutriment in the form of a quart of oysters would cost forty to fifty cents, while the buttermilk would cost on the farm two to five cents. Give me a glass of good buttermilk with the tiny particles of butter floating through it and you may have the beer.

There is an artificial buttermilk sold mostly in saloons. This has not particles of butter floating in your glass, as the genuine refreshing drink, and has never seen a cow. It is made of various articles, not so conducive to health as that coming from Aunt Mary's churn.

Fruit of all kinds is very plentiful hereabouts. Last year over a hundred thousand dollars was paid out here in one county for blackberries. This amount was enlarged this season. Apples and pears were never known to be so plentiful as in this section this year.

S. V. Tomlinson, the wholesale grocer, recently shipped 236,000 pounds of snits to a single firm in Greenville, S. C., and he tells me that he has today half a ton ready for shipment. This man Tomlinson began business here five years ago. He had then a small retail store which through his energy and perseverance has grown from its humble start to a mighty wholesale grocery, with an outside, or rather side show, of wagons, harness, mules, etc. His argument is that man has found out after centuries of experience as well as experimenting that honesty and truth are better principles, better result getters, better business tools than fraud and deceit.

This is a very rapidly growing town on a side of a hill near which the celebrated Yadkin River flows. No liquor sold here, no dance halls and nothing that I know of to lead or tempt one from the straight and narrow road. Dr. Parkhurst says, that "Hell is paved with chorus girls, automobiles and champagne." As we have neither in the beautiful town of North Wilkesboro, of course, according to the great doctor there is no hell here, unless some mountaineer comes to town with a skin full of white whiskey and undertakes to bulldoze or harangue E. C. Woody, who is small of stature, but a giant in strength, and when the above man runs amuck there is trouble.

This will all soon pass away, yes, indeed, for the world has been practicing the golden rule for more than 1900 years and it is not perfect yet, but each day as we pass by we note that it is becoming more lovable and livable.

The people in the tobacco section of this "Tar heel" state are as happy as can be and this year will see many of them free of debt. Besides the great crop of fruit, the crop of tobacco is selling for more money than ever known. Why, I remember very well how well satisfied the farmers were when they received 12 and 15 cents per pound for their choicest leaf. Now it sells at 50 to 60 cents per pound and the crop was an average one for 1912. Yesterday I saw some sell in Winston Salem at 66 cents per pound. The leaf was thin, full of holes, but very light in color and that is what was wanted. Just why that colored leaf was so valuable, I could not learn.

We have had most perfect weather. No frost as yet and my overcoat received a few days ago is a nuisance with the mercury dancing about the eighties.

I have not seen a Gazette since I left the good old town, please send me one to the Williams House, Chattanooga, Tenn., and oblige.

Yours truly,
M. P. Heckerman.

Jones, able seaman of H. M. S. Vermont, gazed into the face of his commander pleadingly. "You are always on leave," exclaimed the officer. "What on earth do you require extra leave for now?" "My sister's baby's going to be waxinated, sir," replied Jones. "And what has that to do with you?" "She's my sister, d'ye see, sir?" exclaimed Jones, with a hurt look. "What, the baby?" "No, sir. The baby's sister's my brother—I mean, I'm the mother's baby—the father's my mother—no—I mean—" "You mean!" broke in the commanding officer angrily. "What do they want you for, that's the point?" "P-p-please, sir," stuttered Jones, "they want m-m-me to stand as godmother."—Argonaut.

Appeal For Alms at Wedding.

There are many customs associated with the French wedding which American brides might copy. One concerns the duties of the maids of honor. An American who attended a fashionable wedding in the Madeleine, in Paris, recently was impressed with the following little ceremony: The maids passed through the assembly of guests making a silent appeal for alms for the poor. At a wedding where no money had been spared and untold extravagance exhibited no one could be grudge the offering of silver expected to be dropped into the dainty "amortiere," or receptacle of filmy lace, ribbon and flowers, which, when not in use, was hung on the arms in lieu of a bouquet.—New York Sun.

It was in the following year, 1785, that an adventurous Dublin orator, Mr. Maguire, made a balloon ascent and was actually knighted by the lord lieutenant for his courage

Medical Inspection of Schools

The medical inspection of schools in districts of the fourth class has been extended this year so that 400,000 children are now receiving the protection of this state work; 870 physicians have been appointed inspectors by Dr. Dixon, Commissioner of Health, to do the work in 1,500 boroughs and townships. There are 11,550 schools in all in which the examinations will be made, this field work will be practically completed by the end of October.

Last year 781 districts were inspected and 145,000 children were examined. Of this number, 111,621 were found to have some defect. Of these 107,386 were white native born children, 3,221 were foreign born and 1,014 colored. Of the total number of defectives found, 73,033 had defects of vision, 72,605 had defective teeth, 51,155 had defective tonsils, 13,243 had defects of hearing, 14,738 showed defective nutrition and 15,959 had defects of breathing. As the total figures show many of the children suffered from more than a single infirmity.

Double the number of fourth class districts have accepted the medical inspection this year, which shows the growing appreciation of the value of this work. A glance at the figures noted above is sufficient evidence that all children suffer alike from unobserved defects. In addition to the examination of the pupils, the medical inspector makes a report on the sanitary conditions of the school buildings and their surroundings.

The value of medical inspection of schools in the districts of the fourth class has been proved. Parents have shown themselves quick to take the remedial measures necessary to put their children on an equal footing physically with their fellows and thousands of youngsters who were struggling under an unobserved handicap, have improved in their school work and have been benefited in every way, thanks to medical inspection.

HEED THE WARNING!!

Backache is the Signal That Kidney Diseases are Nigh.

Who doesn't dread the advanced stages of kidney trouble—Bright's disease, dropsy and gravel?

But today, throughout America, there are tens of thousands suffering the torments of hopeless agony just because they failed to heed the first signal, the certain warning of future misery—backache.

Backache means that your kidneys are weak.

Stop kidney disease at the start, that's the easiest way, and Thompson's Backache Remedy is the surest and easiest to guarantee. It stops backache, sideache and sharp, shooting pains, and cures Bright's disease, and all kidney, liver and bladder trouble, at once.

It is a great maker of new blood, and a builder of flesh, because it brings back the kidney and bladder to their normal condition. The kidneys are the most important organs of the body, and when they are diseased, the whole system is affected. Thompson's Backache Remedy is the only remedy that cures kidney disease at the start, and it is the only remedy that is guaranteed to do so.

An Elopement

It Didn't Come Off as Expected

By F. A. MITCHEL

I was starting one morning to attend to some affairs connected with my estate when at the door I met a telegraph messenger. He handed me the envelope and the book for signature at the same time, and I signed the one before looking at the other. The boy darted away, and, tearing open the envelope, I read the telegram.

I need you very much. Do come to me. GWEN.

Not knowing any one by that name I began to do what I should have done in the first place—investigate. The address was "A. J. Courtney." My name is Alonzo Jackson Courtney. So far all right. I live at 107 Renwick street, and that was the address on the envelope, though there was no street or number written on the message. The place from which it had been sent was Tipterton, a city about an hour's ride from the one in which I lived.

My first impulse was to send the message to the telegraph office with the information that the operator had made a mistake in sending it to me. Then I fell to wondering who was Gwen and why she needed some other fellow with my name. Singular that the initials should be exactly the same in both! Was it, after all, a mistake? I thought hard for a few minutes, then remembered a girl by the name of Gwen I had met at a summer resort and with whom I had had a mild flirtation.

"I've a good mind to follow the thing up," I said to myself, and I did.

I took the first train for Tipterton, where, at the office from which the message had been sent, I learned the address of the sender. Going to the house, a very respectable residence on a good street, and being admitted, I sent up my card, telling the maid to take it to Miss Gwendolin. Word came back that Miss Carrington was not able to see me at present, but hoped I would call again. The maid, however, handed me a sealed envelope containing an admission ticket to the opera, and on a bit of paper was written:

Box 6. This evening. Don't fail.

This was a trifle more than I had bargained for. I was quite up to facing a young lady in her own house and asking her why she had summoned me, but to accept a ticket to the opera under false pretenses was quite another matter. However, I was in for it, and to repay the obligation I dropped in at a florist's and sent Miss Carrington a box of flowers. This relieved my conscience. Then I returned home and during the afternoon put on evening dress, dined early and went back to Tipterton, arriving at the opera house before the curtain rose.

I took a seat in the parquet where I could look up at box 6 and waited. During the overture a young lady, attended only by a maid, entered the box and, throwing off her wraps, took a seat where she was partly concealed by a curtain. I saw her long enough to assure me that I had never seen her before.

I tried hard during the first act to screw up my courage to visit her in her box, but failed. However, when the curtain fell for the first time I gathered sufficient nerve to face her. I would offer the best excuse I could for my action, giving her to understand that I had simply called on her to notify her that her telegram had reached the wrong person. I knocked at the box door and heard a musical voice bid me enter. The lady kept her seat as I did so, drawing the curtain a little farther forward.

"Mr. Courtney, I presume?" she said. You could have knocked me down with a feather. I certainly had not counted on her not knowing the man to whom she had sent the telegram. I had got ready with my excuses, but they were not available. Instead of putting the lady right at once I stood stock still, not knowing what to say. So when she presumed that I was Mr. Courtney I bowed an assent, and, not caring to have an audience witness what might occur, I took a vacant chair behind the same curtain that screened Miss Carrington. Before I could gather my wits to speak she plunged into the subject that was on her mind.

"Maud has told me all," she said, "and has asked me to help her, saying she had notified you that she had placed the management of the whole affair in my hands. I therefore telegraphed you that I needed to confer with you or words to that effect. I preferred not to do so at the house fearing some one would overhear or suspect and your and Maud's happiness might be wrecked."

"Pardon me?"

"I beg of you to let me go on. The plan I propose is rather complicated and I shall have to submit it to you in detail that you may understand it that there may be no link in the chain left out when it is put in operation."

"Do permit me to say something to you or I shall be plain in the dishonorable position of listening to secrets that I have no right to hear."

course that seemed to be open to me was to answer your summons in person and—

"Aren't you Arthur Courtney?"

"No; I am Alonzo Courtney; but if I can be of any assistance to an elopement—"

"My goodness gracious!"

She pulled herself together and seemed to be thinking. Presently she said: "I wish you were not entirely unknown to me and the parties concerned."

"If I am to help you it may be better that I should be unknown to the others."

"That's a good idea. Our trouble will be that any one of our friends acting in the matter would be suspected at once."

"Suppose you begin by stating the case to me."

She thought for a moment then gave me the required statement.

Her friend Maud Dempster was in love with the young man bearing my name. Her mother had arranged a match for her to suit herself rather than the daughter. Maud had very foolishly threatened to elope, and this had caused her mother to keep her virtually a prisoner. Now that she really intended getting away she regretted having put her mother on her guard.

"Does her mother know that she desires to marry this Mr. Courtney?"

"Certainly."

"Then it will be difficult for him to act directly in the matter. He will need an assistant."

Now, I took no interest whatever in Arthur Courtney or Miss Dempster, but I was delighted with the third party to the affair, who was for the moment my companion.

"Do please lay a plan," she said. "I have no inventive power whatever."

"Let me see. How would it do for me to secure an introduction to Miss Dempster and show her some attention, thus throwing her mother off her guard?"

"Better take care. Maud is very fascinating."

I smiled. This was just like a girl, but there was the least bit of give away to it, which pleased me.

"I assure you," I said. "I am, or have been, fancy free."

"What do you mean by 'have been'?"

"I would rather not explain."

How easy it is to say one thing and look another! She understood perfectly that the change which had come over me dated from the moment I entered her box. Nevertheless she irritated me by saying what she did not mean:

"Pardon me. I do not desire to trespass upon your private affairs."

"What do you think of my plans?"

"The very thing."

There was a flourish of trumpets and a rattle of drums on the part of the orchestra, and we listened to an act of the opera before resuming the matter on which we were supposed to be mutually interested. It was not till the end of the performance that we were enabled to resume the discussion of our conspiracy, and then there was no opportunity, since the opera having been finished the house was closed for every other purpose.

"I may see you home?" I asked.

"My maid is waiting."

"But you will grant me the favor?"

"Oh, certainly!"

Well, I called the next evening, and while we gave some time to laying a plan by which the elopement might be effected we reached no definite conclusion. I went away with a desire to plan my own elopement with Gwen. When I parted with her she said she would see Maud the next day, have a conference with her and notify me of the result. Two days later I received a note asking me to call. I did so and learned that both Maud and the real Courtney were much pleased with the plan of using me to get the young lady out of her mother's clutches, but nothing decisive was reached. One would suppose that this being the case there was no use sending for me. Since there was nothing to do in the matter we devoted ourselves to our own affairs rather than those of Maud and Arthur.

I made a number of visits for the purpose of laying a plan by which two lovers might be made happy, but some how or other the plan didn't get perfected, or, rather, we found we couldn't bring the elopers to anything definite. At one time Arthur would be ready and Maud would shrink from action. Then Maud would nerve herself to flight, and Arthur would find that something stood in his way. A month passed during which Gwen and I held more than a dozen consultations upon the matter in question, neither admitting to the other that we were more interested in each other than in Maud and Arthur.

A second month of consultation followed the first, during which there was less said about our friends' affairs and more about our own. Occasionally I would ask Gwen if there was any news concerning the proposed elopement, and she would reply that the parties were waiting for something.

One evening when I called on Gwen I found that she had something on her mind.

"I expect you'll blame me awfully," she said.

"What for?"

"Not telling you something."

"What?"

"Why, Maud and Arthur have eloped."

"Eloped? When?"

"Why, three weeks ago."

"You don't mean it?"

There was a pause during which Gwen looked very guilty. I caught her in my arms and that was the end of the proposed elopement for us.

Could Not Straighten Up

A Peculiar Condition Removed

Some time ago I was troubled with pains in the back and kidneys, at times could not straighten up after bending over. Came to the conclusion that it was my kidneys. Read Dr. Kilmer's advertisement and made up my mind I would try Swamp-Root. During the time taking the contents of two bottles I passed two gall stones of quite good size. Today I am free from pains in the back and kidneys for Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root removed all the difficulty, and I can now go about my work and have no trouble with my back or kidneys. I will gladly recommend Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root to any one suffering from kidney or liver trouble. You are at liberty to publish this if you so desire.

Your Lungs and Throat.

The preparation mentioned by the Rev. Chas. Nager has been for over sixty years of innumerable worth to sufferers from consumption, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, grippe, coughs, colds and all lung and throat diseases, and is a household remedy in many, many homes to which it has brought health and happiness.

Mr. C. A. ABBOTT, August 11, 1912.

60 And St., New York City.
Dear Sir: I have known over 40 years of the effects of Wilson's Remedy (Wilson's Preparation of Hypophosphites and Biotin) in cases of pulmonary troubles. At this point I will say to you that you have not before known of, that 40 years since, while I was a resident of N. Y. City, I was severely ill with lung trouble. Physicians said I was consumptive and my family physician told my wife that he thought I could not recover. My attention was directed to the Wilson Remedy, which I used with splendid effect. I have been on my feet and at work ever since.

Yours truly,
REV. CHAS. NAGER.

Pastor M. E. Church, Hunter, (Greene Co.) N. Y.

The above letter shows what a great boon the Wilson Remedy was to Mr. Nager, but it is but one of thousands received testifying to the curative powers of this wonderful remedy. Write at once to Mr. Abbott at the above address and he will furnish you convincing proof of the great worth to humanity of this preparation.

SORDID TALE OF T. R.'S FUND

Treasurer Sheldon and J. P. Morgan Tell of Millions Subscribed in 1904.

BIG FAVORS IN RETURN.

Frick, Gould and Morgan Gave $100,000 Each—Corporations Gave 73½ Per Cent of Entire Amount Received.

John D. Archbold's statement that the Standard Oil company contributed $100,000 to Mr. Roosevelt's campaign fund in 1904 was confirmed by George R. Sheldon, who succeeded Cornelius N. Bliss as treasurer of the Republican national committee.

Not only did the Standard Oil company give $100,000 to elect Mr. Roosevelt president, but J. Pierpont Morgan & Co. gave $100,000, H. C. Frick gave $100,000 and George Gould gave another $100,000. Mr. Sheldon testified that 73½ per cent of Mr. Roosevelt's total campaign fund was contributed by corporations.

Naturally these people gave their money freely to the Roosevelt campaign fund.

Testifying that he had contributed $150,000 to the Roosevelt campaign fund in 1904 because he was "especially interested," Mr. J. P. Morgan added, "The only interest we had was in the welfare of the public."

Mr. Morgan emphasized his devotion to Mr. Roosevelt's political fortunes by the further statement that J. P. Morgan & Co.'s usual contribution to Republican campaign funds was only $100,000; that he never heard of any donation by his firm to the Democrats; that when Mr. Taft was a candidate in 1908 the sum subscribed was $30,000 and that this year neither he nor his banking house had subscribed a dollar.

How It Was All Done.

To grasp these pregnant facts we have only to recall a little modern history. In 1904 Mr. Roosevelt had his bureau of corporations in working order. Mr. Cortelyou, lately in control of it as secretary of commerce and labor, had been made chairman of the national Republican committee. He and Cornelius N. Bliss, treasurer, were collecting money. As George R. Sheldon, Mr. Bliss' successor, says, 73½ per cent of the funds received came from the menaced corporations.

If we do not find in these disclosures a sufficient explanation of J. P. Morgan & Co.'s "special interest" in Mr. Roosevelt's election, it is possible that later events may reveal it.

Mr. Roosevelt never prosecuted J. P. Morgan & Co.'s steel trust. He emphatically stopped the proceedings instituted by others against J. P. Morgan & Co.'s harvester trust. When the panic of 1907 was at its height he turned the resources of the treasury over to J. P. Morgan & Co., who used them and made money and reputation by the process. He met Gary and Frick, representing J. P. Morgan & Co.'s steel trust, before breakfast one morning and licensed them, in violation of law to absorb the Tennessee Coal and Iron company, thus giving J. P. Morgan & Co.'s steel trust a monopoly of high grade iron ore. He put Mr. Bacon, a partner of J. P. Morgan & Co., into the state department and the diplomatic service. He made Herbert Satterlee J. P. Morgan's son-in-law, assistant secretary of the navy. In a letter to Attorney General Bonaparte he testified feelingly to the virtues of the "Morgan interests which have been so friendly to us." Never before was the "public welfare" so cheaply protected.

Extent of Morgan Interests.

The "Morgan interests" are not confined to J. P. Morgan & Co. by any means. The Morgan interests comprehend life insurance companies, banks and trust companies, railroads and manufacturing enterprises. If the parent house increased its regular Republican contribution in 1904 because of its "special interest" we may easily imagine that the policy was widely imitated by affiliated corporations and individuals. Perhaps in this almost unexampled favor by the Morgan interests we shall find an explanation of the Roosevelt administration's hostility to the Standard Oil interests, which have not always agreed with J. P. Morgan & Co. concerning "the welfare of the public."

It may be that the senate committee will be able to throw more light on this point, but it can hardly add anything to the scandal of the Morgan Roosevelt alliance. It was Mr. Roosevelt who opened up to J. P. Morgan & Co. the possibilities of government by big business. It was Mr. Roosevelt who persuaded J. P. Morgan & Co. to plunge deeply into politics. It was Mr. Roosevelt who, consulting "the public welfare," registered the decrees of J. P. Morgan & Co. in the White House. Not until Mr. Roosevelt had lost control of the Republican machinery and the law providing for publicity of campaign contributions had gone into effect did J. P. Morgan & Co. disappear from the list of regular contributors to the colossal corruption funds of the Republican party. Are J. P. Morgan & Co. now operating politically under cover of their recent partner, George W. Perkins?—New York World.

Harriman's $50,000 For T. R.'s Fund

Time and again Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, the third term party's candidate for president of the United States, has stated that the famous $240,000 raised by the late E. H. Harriman in the fall of 1904 was for use in the New York state campaign. He also declared most positively a few weeks ago that he had ordered Chairman Cortelyou of the Republican national committee, not to accept any money from the Standard Oil company in that campaign and to return it if any had been accepted.

On Monday, Sept. 30, C. O. Tegethoff, secretary to the late E. H. Harriman, produced the above receipt of the Republican national committee, signed by Treasurer Cornelius N. Bliss, for Mr. Harriman's individual contribution of $50,000 to this fund, proving conclusively that it was used in behalf of Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy. The day following John D. Archbold, president of the Standard Oil company, produced the documentary proof that his company did give $100,000 to Roosevelt's campaign fund and that it never was returned.

NUGGETS FROM WOODROW WILSON'S SPEECHES.

The nation has awakened to a sense of neglected ideals and neglected duties.

The tariff has become a system of favors.

We stand face to face with great questions of right and justice.

Parties and platforms and candidates should be frankly put under examination to see what they will yield us by way of progress.

The only way you can conduct politics is in widening circles, not in narrowing circles.

I regard this campaign simply as a continued struggle to see to it that the people are taken care of by their own government.

If prosperity is not to be checked in this country we must broaden our borders and make conquest of the markets of the world.

Measuring Nature.

Nature is not benevolent. Nature is just. gives pound for pound, measure for measure. makes no exceptions, never tempers her decrees with mercy or winks at any infringement of her laws. And in the end is not this best? Could the universe be run as a charity or a benevolent institution or as a poor house of the most approved pattern? Without this merciless justice this irrefragable law, where would we have brought up long ago? It is a hard gospel, but rocks are hard, too, yet they form the foundations of the hills. Man introduces benevolence, mercy, altruism, into the world, and he pays the price in his added burdens, and he reaps his reward in the vast social and civic organizations that were impossible without these things.—John Burroughs in Century.

An Uncrowned King of France.

The president of the French chamber enjoys an almost regal state. Every time he goes to his official palace in the Quai d'Orsay he is greeted by beating drums. Whenever there is a ministerial crisis he must be summoned by the president of the republic to give his advice. He receives what is an extraordinary salary for a French official—100,000 francs per annum. The appointment dates from the days of the convention. On Sept. 21, 1792, was held the debate by which the appointment was created. The first president was Petion a violent Girondist. His six secretaries were also Girondists. It was symptomatic of the times that eight months later the seven were condemned to the guillotine by the deputies who elected them.

Artemus Ward's Account.

FLOCKING TO WILSON

Every day brings many recruits into the Wilson camp and his election to the Presidency is practically assured. More than Fifty Thousand Republicans have joined the Wilson National Progressive Republican League since its organization early in September.

This movement on the part of Republicans, who have pledged themselves to support Jersey's Governor, is becoming nation wide and headquarters are being opened in all the principal cities. Among the recent acquisitions to the ranks is Senator LaFollette's chief aid in Ohio during the primary campaign, Walter W. Pollock, and it is claimed by the League that most of Senator LaFollette's Ohio supporters will vote for Wilson.

Notable among the recruits is Rev. Dr. Josiah Strong, president of the American Institute of Social Service, a life long Republican and an active worker in the cause of civic reform.

He says: "Let me say that while I am very glad to support Governor Wilson for President I am not at all sure that I desire to preserve my identity as a Republican. I have very serious doubts whether the Republican party is worth preserving, and anticipate that the progressive party will take its place."

THE SOUP HOUSE SCARE

Much newspaper and magazine space is being used by the Republican campaign managers in "calamity howling" and talk about "soup houses," and campaign orators are loudly shouting along the same line, regardless of the facts in the matter.

This course is either due to ignorance or to a deliberate desire to deceive.

When the panic of 1873 came the Republican party was in full control of the Government, so also was it in possession of the Government when the panic came in the early part of 1884, and it was during the campaign which resulted in the election of a Democratic President that the country rallied from it.

The Republican party was again in full possession for four years up to within about three months of the panic of 1893. This was a currency panic and was due to the Republican Silver Purchase law of 1890. This act had depleted the gold reserve to a point where it was necessary for the Harrison Administration to borrow a few millions of gold in New York to keep the reserve up to the required $100,000,000 until it could get out of office. The plates had already been prepared for the bond issue when the Cleveland administration began. Now the endeavor is made to throw the responsibility for Republican legislation upon the succeeding Democratic administration.

"So far is it from being true that the Democratic victory in November, 1892, or the inauguration of a Democratic administration in 1893 had an injurious effect upon business, that such high commercial authorities as The Commercial and Financial Chronicle described the first half of 1893 as a period of exceptional prosperity, while the year or two following the enactment of the McKinley tariff had been severely distressing to dealers in wool and manufacturers of woollens.

"The New York Bureau of Labor Statistics publishes the figures showing that month by month for identical establishments, more persons were employed in the industries of that state from the election of Grover Cleveland to the following June than in the corresponding month of the previous year, and the Massachusetts Bureau of Labor publishes statistics showing more persons employed in the industries of that state in May or June, 1893, than in the same month of 1892.

"This panic of 1893, due to Republican silver legislation, is the only one for more than half a century that did not occur while the Republican party was in full possession of all branches of the Government."

The last panic occurred less than five years ago and Theodore Roosevelt was the Republican President at the time, and had been for six years.

Common decency and the slightest regard for truth, it would seem, should silence Republican papers and orators on soup houses.

Surprise Rally Service

The members of St. John's Reformed Sunday School surprised their pastor last Sunday morning by rendering a most beautiful "Rally Day" service. The surprise part was better than any had dared to hope for. Rev. Eyer missed connection for the Bedford train in Cumberland on Saturday and did not arrive in Bedford until Sunday morning. Too much credit cannot be given to those who planned and carried out the program. The decorations of autumn leaves and flowers turned the Sunday School room into a perfect bower of beauty. The offering was more than $10, and the crowd present overflowed into the class rooms and the church. The following program was rendered: Address, S. H. Sell; Duet, Magdalene Reed and Marie Wertz; Address, J. Reed Irvine; Violin Solo, Cloyd Doty; Address, Rev. J. Albert Eyer.

Corle-Diehl

On Thursday, October 10, at the home of the bride in Colerain Township, Lester H. Corle and Ethel S. Diehl were married by Rev. J. C. Knable of Corriganville, Md. After a wedding trip, they will reside at Charlesville.

Joseph H. Sparks

Joseph H. Sparks died from congestion of the lungs and heart failure Sunday, October 13, 1912, at his home in Clearville, being confined to his bed just one week. He was a son of John and Rebecca Sparks, and was born on February 9, 1841, in Black Valley, and was therefore aged 71 years, eight months and four days.

On June 28, 1898, he was married to Miss Georgia Casteel, who, with the following children, survives: John, Willie, Mary and Bertha, all at home. One daughter, Rebecca Ellen, preceded the father to the spiritland. Two brothers and one sister also survive: John C. and Samuel Sparks and Mary, wife of Aaron Stayer, all of Black Valley.

The funeral service took place on Tuesday at 10 a. m. in the Clearville Union Church and was conducted by his pastor, Rev. D. G. Hetrick, of the Reformed Church, who was assisted by Rev. J. Guldin of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Interment was made in the graveyard at the church in which the service was held.

Deceased was a very familiar figure in Monroe and Clearville. He was an old soldier and was mustered into service August 15, 1862, and mustered out May 26, 1863. On May 1, 1861, he was commissioned First Lieutenant of the "Clearville Blues," 1st Brigade of the 16th Division of the uniformed militia of Bedford, Somerset and Blair Counties, and on November 27, 1872, he was commissioned Aide-de-Camp with the rank of Major. For a number of years he had been State Forester in charge of the state land on the mountain west of Chaneyville.

The funeral service was largely attended and six of his comrades in the war were pall bearers, namely Rev. J. H. Barney, John Weimer, Harvey Grubb, John Dodson, Josiah G. Leasure and George W. Amick.

Clarence Replogle

Clarence Replogle died at the home of H. W. Fetters of Salemville, where he had been employed during the summer, early Saturday morning, October 5, of typhoid fever, aged 24 years, three months and one day. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Replogle, one brother, Charles Replogle, two half-brothers, I. M. and J. S. Ebersole, of Salemville, and four half-sisters, Mrs. C. K. Bechtel of New Castle, Mrs. S. E. King of Altoona, Mrs. Smith of Michigan and Mrs. H. W. Pette of Salemville.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Jerre Fyock and Elder D. T. Detwiler in the German Seventh Day Baptist Church, Salemville, Monday morning, October 7. Interment was made in the adjoining cemetery.

Paint Better

Better isn't enough, paint best. A man bought "cheap" paint, saved 20c or 30 or 40 or 50c a gallon, didn't he?

Yes, and bought 40 or 50 or 60 or 80 percent more gallons; how much did he make on his paint?

And he paid for painting those gallons—a fair day's work is a gallon—how much did he make on the labor part of his job?

He lost a quarter or third of his money. How long will it last? not his money, the paint?

Perhaps half as long as Devco. How long will his money last, if he buys other stuff as he bought that paint?

Better buy the best paint, it makes the least bill and least-often. DEVCO

Metzger Hardware and House Furnishing Company sell it.

Marriage Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mickle, of Ryot, celebrated the 38th anniversary of their marriage on Sunday, October 6, at their home. The following children were present: Hugh Mickle and family, of Helixville; Edward Wonders and family and Charles Mickle and family, of Johnstown; Shannon Mickle and family, of Windber; Roy Mickle and family, of Schellsburg, and Aaron Mickle, at home.

BROAD TOP SCHOOL REPORT

For the First Month, Ending October 4, 1912.

There are 26 schools in the district, including the township high school which employs 20 teachers. The total enrollment in the district for the month is 965 with an average attendance of 847. The percent of attendance this year is 93 as against 92 for the same period last year. There were 99 visits made to all of the schools of the district, which is 15 more than were made during the first month last year. Of the 965 enrolled, 482 were in attendance every day while last year there were 485 present every day out of an enrollment of 931. This is due to measles and diphtheria.

The most discouraging feature of the schools is the fact that of the 965 pupils enrolled only 48 have reached the age of 16 years and 34 of these are in the high school, leaving only 14 in the other 24 schools. Of this number 7 quit before the end of the first month. This certainly is a mistake which could easily be corrected if parents could be made to realize what "a day in school" means to their children.

During the month there were two sessions of the B. T. E. A. held at Danville with three absentees from the first, or preliminary, and two from the second session. At the second of these sessions it was voted to elect at each session one of our number to visit the schools of some other district and to report the result of this visit to the association at its next meeting. It was also decided to arrange for a course of entertainments.

The largest enrollment in any one school is 78, in the first primary at Peffance, and the smallest, seven, is in Rinard and Cypher, each. The highest percentage, 99½, was made by the Seniors of the high school and the lowest, 81, was made by the Sandy Run school. The total enrollment in the high school at this time is 50, 22 males and 28 females. The 26 schools of the district are in charge of 12 male teachers and 14 females. More than one-third of our teachers are practically inexperienced. All are making an honest effort and, judging from present indications, we see no reason why our schools should not make marked improvement during this year.

H. H. Brumbaugh,
Supervising Principal.

Bedford Countian Visits Schools

H. E. Walker of the Broad Top Township schools has been in the city the past few days inspecting the work of local schools. He was sent here by the Broad Top Educational Association. Mr. Walker spent Thursday and Friday at the Somerset Street schools and expressed himself as being highly pleased with the work he saw. He was especially interested in the language work, which the boys and girls are taking up with enthusiasm. He was shown how 600 pupils could get out of the building in an orderly manner in one and one-half minutes by fire drill. Prof. L. B. Furry is principal of the Somerset Street schools.—Johnstown Tribune.

A THEORY OF DREAMS.

Slumber Dramas Reflect Symbolically Our Past Experiences.

The dream as it unrolls itself before the sleeper's consciousness is an allegorical or symbolical expression of the ideas which belong to his thought world, writes the Rev. Samuel McComb, D. D., in the Century. Why should dreams take on an allegorical dress? Why are they not, as a rule, a literal transference of events and experiences from a waking state to a sleeping state?

The answer is because the normal waking consciousness which acts as a kind of check upon painful or disagreeable thoughts and feelings relaxes its activities during sleep and allows these thoughts and feelings to pass into consciousness, only, however, when their motives have been disguised under a hidden mass of symbolism.

If it were not so, if dreams literally reflected the conflicts and yearnings of the workaday world, they would set up such emotional excitement as would arouse the waking consciousness and so make an end of sleep; hence the valuable reflection is forced upon us that dreams fulfill the important function of preserving sleep. They are thus seen to bear vitally upon our health and happiness.

Another interesting question which modern investigation has been able to answer is, Out of what materials are dreams constructed? Nothing can come into our dreams that has not entered into our past experiences. The thoughts of the mental state immediately preceding sleep are hard to recover afterward, but when they are recovered they are found to persist in our dreams. But we may go further than this. There is nothing incredible in the supposition that written, as it were, with invisible ink on our nervous systems are characters inherited from our most distant ancestors.

RIDING A CAMEL.

The Bite of the Beast the Most Pleasant Part of the Feat.

The camel is a dangerous animal to ride—a much more dangerous animal than the horse—for the reason that, with his serpentine neck, he can reach round when annoyed and bite his rider.

Camels are not at all the patient, quiet, kindly creatures they are painted. They have nasty tempers. A caravan crossing the desert is always noisy. The loud and angry snarls of the camels make the waste places resound.

A camel's bite is a serious matter. The strong teeth lock in the wound and a circular motion is given to the jaw, around and then back, before the teeth are withdrawn again. The wound is a horrible one. There are few camel drivers without camel scars.

Dr. Nachtigal, the celebrated African explorer, once said to a youth who expressed a sentimental desire to cross the Sahara on camel back:

"Young man, I'll tell you how you can get a partial idea of what riding a camel in an African desert is like. Take an office stool, screw it up as high as possible and put it along with a savage dog into a wagon without any springs. Then seat yourself on the stool and have it driven over uneven and rocky ground during the hottest parts of July and August, being careful not to eat or drink more than once every two days and letting the dog bite you every four hours. This will give you a faint idea of the exquisite poetry of camel riding in the Sahara."

As Mark Twain Saw It.

When Mark Twain was city editor of the Virginia City Enterprise, back in the seventies, he used to brighten up the columns of the paper with comic paragraphs setting forth the advantages of advertising. These paragraphs were based on all kinds of odd facts—on murders, on crop reports, on kidnapping, on the weather. One paragraph ran like this:

"Germany has just discovered a buried forest in her midst, supposed to be 10,000 years old. If the man who lost it had advertised in the Enterprise the chances are that it would have been returned to him that night."

First Wage Laws.

The first wages fixed by parliament in England date back to the year 1350, under Henry III. The wage was ridiculously low. Haymakers had but 1 penny a day; master carpenters, masons, tilers and other roof workers had not more than threepence a day. By 1444, under Henry VI, and 1495, under Henry VII, matters had considerably improved, carpenters, masons, bricklayers, tilers, carvers and joiners getting from five to six pence a day. So late as 1635 farm laborers received only 8s. 6d. per week, the other workers faring not much better.—New York American.

Ambition of a Henpecked Man.

"I don't know that I desire to rule my wife. I used to feel sometimes as if I wished to, but I have got over it," confessed skinny little Mr. Hennypeck to the friend of his boyhood, "but once in awhile I do kind o' have an ambition to be as boarse as she is."—Kansas City Star.

Saved In the Nick of Time

By RUTH W. MALTBY

The early settlers in Kentucky came largely from the same direction. Reaching America from the old world, they settled in Pennsylvania, later emigrated to western Virginia and, having worked out their lands there, moved on down the Ohio river to appropriate the virgin soil of Kentucky.

Among these movers was a family named Martin, the father and mother being elderly persons, their elder children grown. A daughter, Hester, was a girl of eighteen. They settled not far from where Bowling Green is now situated.

The war of 1812 was being fought, and soon after the arrival of the Martins in their new home the battle of New Orleans was fought and won by the Americans, or, rather, the woodsmen of the west, among whom the hunters of Kentucky were conspicuous. The war had been ended by treaty before the battle, though the news of peace had not yet got across the Atlantic, and soon after it was over the troops came marching home.

A company of Kentuckians recruited from the region about where the Martins lived was disbanded, and a young man, Abner Armstrong, who had marched away and returned as a lieutenant, was among the number. At the time of his appearance John Bartlet, a man of forty years of age, had asked Martin for his daughter Hester's hand. There were many mouths to feed in Martin's family, and Bartlet was the only suitor who had established himself in the new country; therefore Martin persuaded Hester to marry him.

But before the wedding had taken place along came the soldiers whose rifles had won the battle of New Orleans. Young Armstrong was a strapping, flaxen haired, blue eyed boy with every appearance of manliness, but with an engaging smile. Hester looked at him and surrendered.

There is but little reason in youth. Instead of confessing to her father and her betrothed that she had not known what love was and that, having discovered it in the young soldier, she had changed, Hester resolved on the most desperate course to be conceived of. She told Armstrong, who was as deeply smitten with her as she was with him, that she could never face either her father or her betrothed to tell them of the change in her and the only course left for them was to run away. It was not likely that one who had but recently helped to win a battle should show the white feather.

The only means of conveyance in those days in Kentucky was a horse. Armstrong had but one animal, but it served for both. They started on an afternoon, and their flight was discovered about 9 o'clock the same night. Bartlet was notified, and when he learned how he had been treated he said:

"I'll go after 'em and bring 'em back. Then I'll tell 'em they kin get married for all me as soon as they like."

With this he mounted his horse, his rifle slung to his saddle and pistols in his holster, for no one went about unarmored in those wild days, and, assuming that the fugitives would make for the Ohio river, he rode straight northward. About midnight he saw a lurid light on the clouds to the northeastward, and, thinking the fugitives had bivouacked and built a fire, he turned his horse's head in that direction.

Suddenly he reined in to a stand and listened. A distant confused barking fell upon his ear. He shuddered. A picture came before his mind's eye painted by the hand of experience. A Kentuckian, he knew that the barks he heard were those of wolves and that one of the ways of fighting wolves was by fire. He saw the girl he had hoped to make his wife and the man she had eloped with besieged by hungry beasts.

Urging forward his horse, guided by the light, the barks growing more distinct as he approached, he finally burst in upon the very scene he had pictured. Armstrong and Hester occupied the center of a circle of fire they had built to keep off the pack. Armstrong's ammunition had been expended, and whenever a wolf snarled too close he beat it back with the barrel of his rifle or with a burning brand. Hester, like a true daughter of the forest, was bravely arranging the wood they had gathered to keep it burning.

Having ridden as far as his terrified horse would go, Bartlet dismounted and, aiming at a wolf, shot him dead. Then, while the pack were devouring their companion, the rifle was reloaded and another wolf was brought down. Drawing nearer to the besieged couple, Bartlet called upon them to run toward him while he covered their retreat. They started, Hester in advance. The wolves sprang after them, and just as their leader was about to spring upon Armstrong, who was moving with his face to them, Bartlet shot the beast dead. This gave Armstrong time to make good his retreat, and before the wolves had finished eating the carcass already slain the three persons had got away.

The next morning all appeared at the Martin home. Bartlet, without a word of reproach, released Hester from her engagement to him, and her father consented to her marriage with Armstrong as soon as he had a cabin to put her in. But the latter proved a better soldier than pioneer and never got the cabin. In time Hester married Bartlet of her own free will.

Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, widow of Samuel Moore, died at her home in Keosauqua, Ia., on September 30, aged 97 years, nine months and 12 days. Mrs. Moore was born in Bedford on December 18, 1814, and was a daughter of Henry and Mary Miller.

Mrs. Moore was an aunt of Mrs. Annie Mower of Bedford and Miss Josiah Hissong and Miss Lou Amick of Point. She married Samuel Moore on March 2, 1833. Mr. Moore was a brother of Hugh Moore who was sheriff of Bedford County at one time.

They moved to Keosauqua in the spring of 1846, where they have lived ever since. Samuel Moore died 20 years ago. They had nine children who are all dead but two, Miss Eliza C. Moore and Mrs. Henry H. Disbrow, both of Keosauqua.

Mrs. Moore was a life long member of the M. E. Church. The funeral services were held in the M. E. Church at their home on October 2 by her pastor, other ministers of the city assisting.

COMING TO BEDFORD

Of Special Interest to the Sick

Dr. Rhoads of Pittsburgh, specialist in chronic diseases, will be at the Grand Central Hotel, Bedford, Pa., on Friday, October 25, giving all who are sick an opportunity to consult this eminent specialist free of charge and get his advice and treatment right at your house. Dr. Rhoads has decided on this place by request of people living here, who otherwise would not have the chance to consult him. I realize that a visit to Pittsburgh to see me would be a hardship to the sick, therefore I come to you, believing that more good can be accomplished to see the largest number of sick. I ask therefore, all who need the services of an expert specialist in chronic and long-standing diseases to call and see me, consult me free of charge, get my advice, and if I find, after examining you, that I cannot cure you I will gladly tell you, and if your case is curable, which in 90 per cent. with my new treatment get well, I will accept your case. Remember, I make you no promise that I cannot do; my rule is to give you exactly what I agree.

WHAT I CURE

I cure Rheumatism in one month, no matter how long standing. I give you relief at once. My treatment removes the cause of it, purifies the blood, relieves the kidneys at once.

I CURE Kidney and Bladder troubles. If you have Kidney troubles, pain in back, urine highly colored, dark sediment, pain along spine, weak back and headaches, come to me and let me show you why I can give you a cure—does the urine burn you, pass it too frequently, pains in bladder and prostate gland? I can relieve you at once and give you a permanent cure. This is especially the trouble with middle-aged persons, and if neglected causes more distressing pains as you grow older. I cure this in a very short time.

DO YOU SUFFER FROM STOMACH OR LIVER TROUBLE?

Have you pains after eating, does your food disagree with you, suffer from constipation and gases in the bowels? Then come and consult me. I will cure you in one month, complete restoration to health. My treatment is different from the old pills and nauseous medicines you have been taking. It cures.

SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES

If you have blood poison, which causes eruptions, pimples, sore throat, eczema, and all rash and sores, no matter how long you have been sick, I can cure you of the disease; many cases with one treatment.

DISEASES OF WOMEN

I positively cure all unnatural conditions that you may be suffering from. My home treatment has been used by thousands with benefit in every case. Come and let me advise you and a cure awaits you.

I cure Lung trouble, Nervous diseases, Epilepsy, Catarrh, Piles and all chronic and special diseases.

DISEASES OF MEN

YOUNG MEN—I especially invite men who are sick, nervous, weak, despondent, lost all ambition, no desire for work or pleasure, I want you to call and get my special advice. I cure blood diseases, weakness, losses and drains stopped in ten days. Ulcers, loss of ambition, nervous debility, lack of energy, and all special diseases of a private nature. Consult me confidentially and I assure you of a permanent and lasting cure. No matter how long you have been sick or the nature of your disease.

REMEMBER

I will make regular monthly visits to your town, and no matter what your disease is I want you to come in and consult me. I have treated only chronic diseases for 25 years, and if you are sick you need the advice and care of a man who has had the proper training and experience to cure you.

The date is Friday, October 25, at the Grand Central Hotel, from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.
If unable to call, write to my home office, 405 Fourth Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

REPUBLICAN HOPE RESTS IN WILSON.

Gov. Burke Declares For Democrat and Gives His Reasons.

By JOHN BURKE,

Governor of North Dakota.

The election of Governor Wilson is the only thing that can save the Republican party. Four years of President Taft has split it in two. We have no reason to believe that he will be any different or that his second administration, if he is re-elected, will be any more satisfactory to the people than his first. His re-election will mean the division of the Republican party into many warring factions, which can only result in final dissolution of all.

The end will come quicker and just as certain if Roosevelt is elected, for he is no longer a Republican, but is the leader of a new party, at war with the Republican party, as it is with the Democratic party. On the other hand, if Wilson is elected the Roosevelt party will perish; the Republicans will reorganize their party, purge it of the baneful influence of corporate power and greed and make it again the grand old party it was in the days of Lincoln.

Louis D. Brandeis performed a real public service when he quoted the records to show that George W. Perkins is and always has been an enemy of union labor.

Mrs. T. A. Town, 107 6th St., Watertown, S. D., writes: "My four children are subject to hard colds and I always use Foley's Honey and Tar Compound with splendid results. Some time ago I had a severe attack of la grippe and the doctor prescribed Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and it soon overcame the la grippe. I can always depend upon Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and am sure of good results." Ed. D. Heckerman.

MAN VERSUS NATURE.

Marvels That Are Wrought Through Synthetic Chemistry.

Nature, we may reflect, has a hard time in competition with the chemist. Her slow, laborious processes are one by one being superseded.

Her most delicate perfumes, which she dishes to us in drops, are made by the gallon in the laboratory. The infinite delicacy of her tints we stimulate from a material so unromantic as coal tar. We squeeze a cellulose product through a tiny hole, and we have the silk of the silk worm. We transform trees into paper and educate the world. We imitate the precious stones which Nature has produced by gigantic forces in upheaval, and the only difference, as was stated in our courts recently, is that the artificial product is more perfect than the real. Now the chemist takes starch, an unromantic material enough, and makes of it that rubber on which the wheels of the world go round.

In the course of his experiments man discovers a cheap method of making acetone, an essential of our modern high explosives. Somehow or other all man's experiments lead ultimately to the explosive, which again shows how we reverse processes, for, while Nature begins all her work with an explosion, man works up to the explosion as the highest expression of his conquest.—Westminster Gazette.

BEHEADING IN SIAM.

First the Victim Is Fed, Then Tired Into Giving the Signal.

An execution in Siam is an extraordinary business, according to a correspondent of the Chronicle Medicale. The doomed man, awakened at dawn, is led in chains to the temple, where candles are lit around him. He is exhorted to think of nothing to disassociate his mind from mundane affairs and is given the best meal of his life, the menu being carefully chosen according to the social status of the criminal.

There are two executioners. One is hidden in some brushwood, while the other, dressed in vivid red, conducts the criminal to the place of sacrifice, bidding him be seated on banana leaves "in order to be entirely separated from earth."

The condemned man is then put into position, awaiting the ax. Earth is put in his ears. For two hours or more nothing happens. Siamese law demands that the criminal shall bow his head voluntarily to the ax. This he does finally from sheer exhaustion, and immediately headman No. 2 rushes from his hiding place and does the rest. The executioners are then sprayed with holy water and otherwise purified from contact with the victim's soul.—Paris Cor. New York World.

SOMERSAULTS OF ROOSEVELT

William Jennings Bryan Analyzes
Record of Third Term Candidate.

HIS SUDDEN CONVERSION.

No Message In Behalf of People's Cause
In Seven and a Half Years T. R.
Was President.

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN.

Solomon says that the borrower is servant unto the lender. If this applies to one who borrows ideas Mr. Roosevelt does not recognize the obligation, for he has not only borrowed from the Democratic party a few public men have borrowed from an opposing party, but he has shown himself strangely ungrateful for the ideas taken. Of course it will not be contended that an idea can be patented. It is the only thing, in fact, that is not subject to monopoly.

Even Mr. Perkins, with all his fondness for the trust, would not contend that a monopoly in ideas could be formed and made subject to regulation by a bureau appointed by the president. Mr. Roosevelt, however, has won his popularity by the advocacy of things previously advocated by the Democrats, and still he is all the while assailing the Democrats bitterly and has shown toward them a hostility that is hard to explain.

To show the extent of his borrowings, let me enumerate some of the things which he now advocates that were advocated by the Democrats at an earlier date.

Shall the People Rule?

Take his paramount issue of the present campaign—namely, the rule of the people. The platform adopted by the Democratic national convention at Denver four years ago contained the following:

"Shall the people rule? is the overwhelming issue which manifests itself in all the questions now under discussion."

Here is the very phrase which he employs, and it is not only declared to be an issue, but the overwhelming issue. It was dwelt upon by the candidates and by other speakers during the campaign, so that Mr. Roosevelt, then president, may be assumed to have had notice of it. He not only refused to admit that it was the paramount issue, but he displayed extraordinary activity in urging upon the country Mr. Taft, whom he has since declared to be the agent of bosses and the enemy of popular government.

It would seem that he ought to make some slight acknowledgment of his indebtedness to the Democratic party for suggesting this issue to him. At least, he might put the issue in quotation marks.

He is now advocating the direct election of senators, but if he ever expressed himself in favor of this reform earlier than two years ago the fact has escaped my observation, and I have not only watched carefully, but waited anxiously, for some favorable expression from him.

Long Fight For Popular Election of Senators.

The Democratic party began the fight for the popular election of senators twenty years ago this summer, when a Democratic house of representatives at Washington passed for the first time a resolution submitting the necessary amendment. Since that time a similar resolution has been passed by the house in five other congresses—first, in 1894 by another Democratic house; then, after two congresses had elapsed, by three Republican houses, and, last, by the present Democratic house. During the twenty years the reform has been endorsed in three Democratic platforms, the platforms of 1900, 1904 and 1908, and it has been endorsed by the legislatures of nearly two-thirds of the states. Mr. Roosevelt must have known of the effort which was being made by the people to secure the popular election of senators, and yet he took no part in the fight. During this time he was president for seven and one-half years, and it is quite certain that a ringing message from him would have brought victory to the people's cause, but no message came. Four years ago the convention which he controlled and which nominated Mr. Taft rejected, by a vote of seven to one, a resolution endorsing this reform.

Still Mr. Roosevelt did not say anything. He neither rebuked the Republican convention nor endorsed the strong plank which was included in the Denver platform. Even Mr. Taft went so far during the campaign of 1908 as to say that PERSONALLY he was INCLINED to favor the popular election of senators by the people, but Mr. Roosevelt did not even indicate an intention in that direction. Now, when the reform is practically secured—the amendment being before the states for ratification—he declares himself in favor of it. Would it not be fair for him to indicate some way his appreciation of the long continued fight waged by the Democrats in behalf of this reform before he espoused it?

T. R. and the Income Tax.

Mr. Roosevelt is in favor of an income tax. How long since? His first endorsement of it was during his second term, and then it was suggested as a means of limiting swollen fortunes and not as a means of raising revenue. The Democratic party included an income tax provision in the Wilson law of 1894. When this provision was declared unconstitutional by the supreme court by a majority of one the Democratic party renewed the fight and has contended for the income tax in three national campaigns. In 1903 the Democratic platform demanded the submission of an amendment specifically authorizing an income tax—the very amendment now before the states for ratification.

Mr. Roosevelt's candidate, Mr. Taft, declared during the campaign that an amendment was not necessary, and Mr. Roosevelt never made any argument in favor of the amendment or in favor of the principle embodied in it. The amendment has now been ratified by thirty-four states; but, so far as I know, Mr. Roosevelt has never made a speech in favor of its ratification nor, since the submission of the amendment, made a speech urging an income tax as a part of our fiscal system. It would not require any great stretch of generosity on his part to credit the Democratic party with priority in the advocacy of this reform.

Not Always For Railroad Regulation.

Mr. Roosevelt is now an advocate of railroad regulation. When did he commence? The Democratic party in its platforms of 1896, 1900 and 1904 demanded an extension of the powers of the interstate commerce commission. Up to 1904 Mr. Roosevelt never discussed the subject of railroad regulation officially or in public speech, so far as I have been able to find. Although nominated without opposition in the convention of 1904, his platform contained no promise of railroad regulation. By its attitude on the railroad question the Democratic party alienated the support of those railway officials who counted themselves Democrats, and Mr. Roosevelt, both in 1900, when he was a candidate for vice president, and in 1904, when he was a candidate for president, had the benefit of the support of those ex-Democrats. It was in 1904 that he wrote his famous letter to Mr. Harriman and in the state of New York profited by the campaign fund that Mr. Harriman raised.

When after 1904 Mr. Roosevelt took up the subject of railroad regulation he found more hearty support among the Democrats in the senate and house than among the Republicans, so that he has reason to know that the Democratic party has for a long time planted itself boldly upon the people's side on the subject of railroad regulation.

Under the circumstances we might expect some complimentary reference to our party's attitude instead of anathemas.

T. R.'s Complete Somersault.

On the subject of publicity as to campaign contributions he has not only adopted the Democratic position, but he has been compelled to turn a complete somersault in order to do so. In 1908 the Democratic platform demanded the publication before election of the names of individual contributors and the amounts contributed. Mr. Roosevelt at that time endorsed Mr. Taft's contention that the publication should be deferred until after the election, and even went so far as to give reasons for believing that it would be improper to make the publication before the election. Two years later he declared in favor of publicity before and after the election, landing on the Democratic side shortly before the law was enacted carrying out the Democratic platform on this subject. Here, surely, he ought to praise the Democratic party for the pioneer work it has done in purifying politics.

Here are a few of the things which bear the Democratic brand, and with all of his experience on the plains he will not be able to "work the brand over" so as to make it look like "T. R."

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson III.—Fourth Quarter, For
Oct. 20, 1912.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Mark vii, 24-30;
Matt. viii, 5-13—Memory Verses 27,
28—Golden Text, John vi, 37—Commentary by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The two incidents of these lessons, though far separated as to the time of their occurrence, are both illustrations of great faith on the part of two people who were not of Israel—foreshadowings, no doubt, of the time when blessing shall go from Israel and her righteous king to all other nations, as set forth in Ps. lxxvii and many other places in such wonderful words as these, "God be merciful unto us and bless us, that Thy way may be known upon earth, Thy saving health among all nations," and meantime contrasting the "little faith" or "no faith" of Israel with the "great faith" of those of lesser privilege.

The story of the woman of Tyre and Sidon follows in the regular order of events, while that of the Roman centurion takes us back to a time just after the choosing of the twelve apostles. Both events are recorded by Matthew; the centurion also in Luke vii and the gentle woman in Mark in the lesson of today. The great words in each lesson are, to my mind, "O woman, great is thy faith, be it unto thee even as thou wilt," and "Verily I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel. * * * Go thy way, and as thou hast believed, so be it done unto thee" (Matt. xv, 28; viii, 10-13).

Taking the story of the centurion first, we note that his servant, who was dear unto him, was sick unto death, and the messengers who came to Jesus on his behalf spoke of the centurion's love for the nation and how he had built them a synagogue; but the centurion himself said, either personally or by his messengers, that he was not worthy to have the Lord Jesus come under his roof, but that if He would only speak the word his servant would be healed. When the messengers returned to the centurion's house they found the servant whole that had been sick. He had been healed in the same hour that Jesus had said, "As thou hast believed, so be it done unto thee."

As Jesus commended the centurion's faith He said to the people that many would come from all parts and share the kingdom with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, while many who supposed they were sure of it would find themselves cast into outer darkness. How essential it is that we become in God's way His children and know that our names are written in heaven (Luke x, 20; Rev. xx, 15; xxi, 3), for many who profess to be His will have to hear Him say, "I never knew you, depart from Me" (Matt. vii, 21-23). Mark the poverty of spirit of the centurion, no self conceit or consciousness of the importance of his position, but evidently from his heart, "Lord, I am not worthy." Something of the spirit of him of Luke xviii, 14, who went to his house justified. There is only one who is truly worthy, and when we take our right place before Him He is ready to honor all the faith we place in Him.

As to the other incident I have often thought that Jesus went away off there to be refreshed by that woman's great faith, for knowing all things He knew all about her and her trouble, and the way she would come to Him and cling to Him and take no denial. Nothing pleases Him like faith, and without faith it is impossible to please Him. It is written that the centurion's servant was dear unto him, but here it is a mother pleading for her own daughter who must have been dear to her, and specially dear because of her affliction, for the sick one in a home generally has the sympathy of all. As we think of those who are dear to us do we consider the words of our Father in heaven concerning His only begotten Son, "This is My beloved Son in whom I am well pleased?" (John iii, 16; Matt. iii, 17; xvii, 5). Let us also lay to heart that we do not honor the Father unless we honor the Son; and that since God spared not His own Son He will with Him also freely give us all things (John v, 23; Rom. viii, 32).

Probably this distressed mother did not know these great truths, but she knew that she had a greatly afflicted daughter, she had heard of this wonderful teacher who could heal all diseases and cast out demons and had no doubt longed to reach Him, but He was too far away, and so her case seemed hopeless. But now He had come near to her, the blessing was within her reach, and as soon as possible she is at His feet beseeching Him for her daughter. To get the complete record we must put the accounts in Matthew and Mark side by side. To her first appeal Jesus answered her not a word. The disciples besought Him to send her away. He then said that He was sent only to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. She first cried unto Him as the Son of David, now she says, "Lord, help me." To this He replied, "It is not meet to take the children's bread and cast it unto the dogs." Then came her conquering appeal, "Yes, Lord, yet the dogs under the table eat of the children's crumbs." Willing to own herself a gentle dog pleading for a crumb, she gets all she came for. "For this saying go thy way; the devil is gone out of thy daughter." In each of these cases note the extreme weakness and lowliness of the applicants.

Geo. T. Craddock, Rubie, Ark., says: "I was bothered with lumbago for seven years so bad I could not work. I tried several kinds of kidney medicine which gave me little or no relief. Two bottles of Foley Kidney Pills cured me and now I can do any kind of work. I cheerfully recommend them to my friends." Ed. D. Heckerman.

You Wouldn't Try to Run a Motor Car--

with sand in the bearings would you? Sure not! Yet if the automobile were spoiled, you could buy another, if you had the price. But lots of people use their eyes without proper glasses, never stopping to think that if they spoil them, there is not money enough in the world to pay for another pair. If you have any trouble at all with your eyes, now is the time to look after it. It will cost you nothing to have them tested.

ROOSEVELT SHOT

sent to Mrs. Roosevelt, telling her of the shooting. She was informed that the wound was slight.

The Would-Be Assassin

The man who did the shooting at first refused to give his name. He was taken to the police station and searched.

He had on his person a copy of the Colonel's itinerary written on a sheet of note paper taken from the Bismarck Hotel and Cafe, Nashville, Tenn.

The assassin confessed to the police that he fired the shot and said: "Any man looking for a third term ought to be shot."

A written proclamation found on the clothing of the man reads:

"September 15, 1901, 1:30 a. m.—In a dream I saw President McKinley set up in a monk's attire in whom I recognized Theodore Roosevelt. The President said, 'This is my murderer; avenge my death.'"

September 15, 1901, was the day after President McKinley's death.

"September 12, 1912, 1:30 a. m.—While writing a poem some one tapped me on the shoulder and said: 'Let not a murderer take the Presidential chair. Avenge my death.'"

"I could plainly see Mr. McKinley's features."

"Before the Almighty God, I swear this above writing is nothing but the truth."

In answer to the protests against his speaking the Colonel replied: "I'll make this speech or die; it will be one or the other."

The Colonel was taken to Mercy Hospital, Chicago, arriving at 5:30 Tuesday morning.

The latest reports from his bedside are that his condition is satisfactory to the physicians. The X-ray plate shows the missile flattened and lodged in a splintered rib. The danger of blood poisoning will not be over until after today, but up to this time there are no signs of infection. His family is with him and he will not be removed from the hospital at present.

THE PITTSBURGH DISPATCH TO GIVE AWAY $32,000

This Section Part of Contest Territory With Automobiles and Other Prizes as Its Share.

The Pittsburgh Dispatch announces a popularity voting contest, in which $32,000 in prizes will be given away to men, women and children throughout Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia and Maryland. The list of prizes is probably the largest ever offered by an American newspaper. It includes 14 touring cars, 5 player-pianos, 5 pianos, 15 diamond rings, 30 furniture outfits and 15 grafanolas.

This section is included in the contest territory and gets at least two of the automobiles and a number of the smaller prizes as its share of the list. This county should furnish a number of contestants. Any who wish may enter without cost or obligation. Votes are obtained by clipping ballots from The Dispatch. A stipulated number of votes will also be allowed on each subscription.

Names of those who wish to enter should be sent immediately to The Dispatch Contest Department, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Fishertown

October 16—Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, of Hollidaysburg, visited friends here recently.

Mrs. Shannon Berkheimer and son Ross spent a few days with friends in Joannstown and Windber last week. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reininger, of Springhope, were Sunday visitors at the home of T. E. Berkheimer.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Allen, of Bedford, spent from Saturday till Sunday at the home of James Allen.

Job Blackburn, who had been staying with his daughter, Mrs. Alda Taylor of this place, has gone to spend the winter with friends in Joannstown.

Sherman Hoover, who was taken seriously ill on his way home from Cessna last Thursday, we are glad to note, is able to be out again.

Uriah Blackburn left last Saturday for a visit with his son, Dr. A. E. Blackburn, in Philadelphia.

Frank Hull and Mr. Baker, of Joannstown, spent Monday night at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. B. F. Hoover.

Mrs. Alverda Waight and Mrs. Howard, of Frankstown, Blair County, after a week's stay with relatives here, returned home one day last week.

Miss Mary Way's bungalow will soon be ready for occupancy, judging from the force of hands at work; John Williams of Schellsburg is the contractor.

The sick of our community are all very much improved at this writing. Preaching service in the Lutheran Church here next Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

Cessna

October 16—Our farmers have all finished corn cutting and seeding and are getting ready for corn husking. Miss Verna Trout, who has been critically ill for the past five weeks, is slowly improving.

Lloyd Shaffer of East Freedom spent Sunday with his daughter, Mrs. Frank Hoenstine, of this place.

George Bush moved into his new residence at the Cross Roads school on Wednesday of last week, and his son Hartley moved on the farm vacated by his father on Thursday. Mr. Bush's new house is one of the finest on the Hollidaysburg Pike.

Blair Ott lost a fat hog this week. Mrs. R. C. Trout is at Imbler Cross Roads nursing Mrs. Adam Imbler, who stepped on a rolling stone and fractured her ankle.

Roy Way, tired of hearing the neighing of the horses and the mooing of the cows, and, in fact, tired of farm life, packed his grip and bled himself away for the hustling city of Joannstown three weeks ago. The hustle and bustle of city life proved far more tiresome than the farm, so Roy is back to stay.

William and Humphrey Hershberger have almost completed two new red brick residences in our town.

The campers have all left and we still have plenty of fish in Dunning's Creek.

James Hinton transacted business at the county capital on Saturday.

W. J. McCallion and son Earl spent Friday night in Altoona.

Jacob Naugle of Altoona spent Saturday night and Sunday with his brother Frank.

Miss Alice Ickes of Bedford spent Sunday with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Trout.

On account of the illness of his little daughter, our tea man, J. C. Trout, has been a little late in his deliveries the past two months, something unusual for Jasper.

George Fetter has returned home from Joannstown, where he was employed by the Cambria Steel Company. George says "nix" on the city for him. He is a typical farmer.

R. C. Trout purchased a fine Jersey cow from Ed. Prosser this week.

The best thing in the world for lice in coops, on animals or poultry, and fleas on dogs is Sanax Dip and is sold at Heckerman's Drug Store, Bedford, Pa.

Sunday School Rally

The Church of God Sunday School at Coalmont held a Rally Sunday afternoon which was largely attended. The double male quartette of Saxton furnished the music. The Sunday School at Coaldale will hold a Rally October 20. Song service 9 a. m.; Sunday School 9:30, lesson taught by the pastor. Preaching 10:30 by Rev. W. J. Winfield of Newville. Morning music furnished by the Chamberlain quartette. Song service by the primary department at 2 p. m. Convention at 2:30 addressed by Profs. Barney and Brumbaugh and Hon. William Lauder. Endeavor 6:30 addressed by John E. Shuke, Esq., J. L. Tenley, Esq., and Prof. D. E. Fisher. Lecture 7:30, "Missed and Lost," by Rev. F. W. McGuire. Music during the afternoon by the Defiance quartette and in the evening by church choir and Defiance quartette. Revival services opened at North Point October 17 and will be held each evening at 7:30. The pastor will be assisted by Rev. W. J. Winfield.

Supt. E. R. Barclay Resigns

Prof. E. R. Barclay, for 11 years Superintendent of the Huntingdon schools, has resigned to accept a similar position in Pottsville at a salary of $2,100.

The Huntingdon board accepted his resignation reluctantly last Friday night. A petition signed by 225 members of the high school was presented to the board requesting that body to retain Supt. Barclay. The board, in appreciation of his services, offered to raise his salary if he would remain, which he declined to do, stating that the new field offers greater chance for broader work. The resignation will take effect November 1.

Supt. Barclay is a son of Mrs. Henrietta Barclay of Bedford Township. He has done much for the Huntingdon schools and his determination to make the change is deeply regretted.

Reception for Minister

The East Pennsylvania Eldership which met at Shippensburg last week returned Rev. F. W. McGuire to Saxton for the tenth year. This is the longest pastorate this church has enjoyed. Friday evening about 8 o'clock Mrs. Alice Houpp called at the parsonage and invited the pastor to come over into the church building. Here they found a number of persons in the room and the space about the pulpit heaped high with the good things of life. To this there was added a neat sum in cash—the contribution of church and friends at Saxton and Coalmont amounting in all to about $32. The evening was pleasantly spent in the exchange of congratulations. The church expects to build a new house of worship during the coming year and they are now holding a market each Saturday afternoon in Weaver's store room near the depot to raise funds for this project.
